The University of Central Florida invites applications and nominations for the position of Vice Provost for Regional Campuses. This position reports to the Provost and Executive Vice President.

With more than 50,000 undergraduate and 8,500 graduate students, UCF is one of the most dynamic universities in the country. UCF currently offers 92 undergraduate, 85 master’s, and 30 doctoral programs, along with the M.D. degree in the College of Medicine. Located in Orlando, UCF recently received the Carnegie Foundation’s “very high research activity” designation and is committed to world-class research with local, national, and international impact; innovative partnerships; and the integration of technology and learning. The U.S. News & World Report’s Best Graduate Schools guide ranked the University of Central Florida as the No. 4 “up-and-coming” school in the country. Additional information about UCF and Regional Campuses can be found at http://www.iroffice.ucf.edu/character/current.html and http://regionalcampuses.ucf.edu/.

As the chief administrative officer of the regional campuses, the Vice Provost oversees the development and operation of UCF’s ten regional campuses throughout the university’s eleven county service area. The successful candidate for the position of Vice Provost must have an earned doctorate or other appropriate terminal degree and a minimum of five years of high level academic or administrative experience in higher education.

Preference will be given to candidates with experience working with college deans in academic program development and budget management, a record of success in collaborative approaches to building strong community and business partnerships, and experience in a state university or community college setting. In addition, candidates should be effective communicators and have a demonstrated record of system-level policy development and strategic planning in a complex multicampus environment serving students with diverse educational goals, and should have knowledge of on-line learning and continuing education.

Search Process

The Search Committee invites letters of nomination, applications (with a letter of interest, a complete CV, and a list of at least five references that includes their contact information), or expressions of interest to be submitted to the search firm assisting UCF. References will be contacted only for short-listed candidates after notification of the candidates. Review of materials will begin immediately. Please submit nominations and applications by December 14, 2012. Applications received after this date may be considered at the discretion of the Committee and/or hiring authority.
